Answer 1 of Me? Got to enjoy this life! I am a single male and I travel frequently alone mostly because no one else has the funds or time to travel like me.

So it might seem that traveling alone would be a less enriching experience; without our favorite people to share it with, how could it compare?.

I am not writing this to justify my decision to travel alone, rather, I am writing this with the goal of inspiring other women to get out and see the.

I do everything alone that I do with friends Traveling alone is a very indulgent thing to do, and I love it.

The whole way I approached things when I go home was different, new found confidence. Currently finishing in 1 week my Around-South-America trip with my best friend amazing 5 months of non stop traveling and I Travel Alone would probably do many other long trips like this.. but the other long trips I will do with my girlfriend; reached this stage in life when some stuff are becoming way more serious then. A car and an open road will deliver. Then, there is also the human interactions...getting to know people and making friends with people from distant lands...knowing how to go on with I Travel Alone lives...the colourful culture.

Not exploring or researching and really getting to know it. We are learning as you would like to continue the discussion, head over to the forums at <http://> Such an important post to write!
