The day had been planned for Poet of the Sphere months; the moment had been imagined and re-imagined over and over over in my head; the thought about what I would say gave me goose-bumps; the alignment of all the stars that had to happen to bring about a meeting of minds, lives, Poet of the Sphere, authors, still makes me feel like a kid at Christmas again; the anticipation, the journey, the waiting in-line outside the grand Waterstones bookstore in Birmingham with my friend, is something that I will always remember, and it will always be special to me- I remember bringing more than one book to get signed by one of my favourite authors, but just the thought of what I was doing and who I was doing it with, and the memory and experience that I was sharing was what truly made me happy. Open Preview See a Problem? Miss Nevins spoke also of Milton's realization of the power and obligation of a poet, of his fear of being prevented by death from fulfilling his role in life, and of his agreement with Plato's statement that it was the right and responsibility of a poet to "imbed and cherish seeds of virtue in the community.
